He states that the polar white bears are very rarely found by any of the Indians in winter; and that their winter retreats appear to be unknown;* that they are sometimes seen retiring towards the sea on the ice in autumn, and appear again in great numbers in the latter end of March, bringing their young with them. Hearne also states that the white or arctic foxes are, some years, remarkably plentiful, and always come from the north; that their numbers almost exceed credibility; that it is well, known none of them ever migrate again to the northward; and that naturalists are at a loss to know where they originate, f He also mentions that all kinds of game, as well as fish, in those high...
