Excerpt from An Address to the Freemen of Rhode Island: By a Landholder TO THE FREEMEN OF RHODE-ISLAND, On the twentieth of April next, you will again select your rulers for the ensuing political year. Although I am no preacher, I shall take the liberty this occasion to take a text, which you may find in Adam Smith's Theory of Moral Sentiments, (vol. 1. 3. 3.) in the words following: , Examine the Records of History, recollect what has happened within the circle of your own experience, consider with attention what has been the conduct of all the greatly unfortunate, either in public or private life, whom you have either read or heard of or remember, and you will find, that the misfortunes of by far the greatest part of them, have arisen from their not knowing when they were well off, when it was proper for them to sit still and be contented. The inscription upon the tombstone of the man who had endeavoured to mend a tolerable constitution by taking physic, I WAS WELL, I...
